

There is One God

Begin with the Choir. Add one instrument at a time. Repeat as many times as you like, but at least twice. The quarter note remains moderate so that the choir is chantlike but not so slow that the flute can't sing the snippets of Christmas carols. The percussion player is free to improvise and use whatever instruments are available. Direct all questions to the One God in meditation.

Iraeneus (2nd C.)

Timothy Shepard

The musical score is arranged in five staves. The top staff is for Handbells, showing a sustained chord. The second staff is for Flute, with a melodic line. The third staff is for Soprano and Alto voices, with lyrics: "There is one God. Whose Word and wis - dom made and or - dered all things." The fourth staff is for Tenor and Bass voices, with a lower melodic line. The fifth staff is for Percussion, with a rhythmic pattern of quarter notes.